

Chuck Orzechowski

Chuck brings a passion for leadership development and serving our military and veteran communities. Over the course of his twenty-five-year career, he has developed successful early talent and management level training programs. Chuck has first-hand experience tackling leadership challenges, and creating support networks for our military veterans.

Before joining S2A Solutions, Chuck held senior positions at a number of Fortune 500 organizations as well as mid-sized and late stage, start-up companies. Chuck has a diverse background in leadership, including roles in operations, supply chain, contract negotiations, project management, inside sales & customer service. He led major international growth initiatives for Fenner Precision and was the UK Operations Manager for Touch Bionics in Livingston, Scotland.

Chuck is a graduate of Youngstown State University with a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering. He was selected for Coltec Industries' inaugural Leadership Program class in 1995. This highly competitive program was launched by a former General Electric executive modeled after their famed leadership programs of the early '90s. Chuck is a certified Lean - Six Sigma Black Belt and has taught hundreds of classes on operational performance improvement.

Chuck is actively engaged with numerous veteran and civic service groups. He is currently a Director for the Cleveland chapter of Team RWB, one of the nation's largest veteran service organizations. He also volunteers at local VA hospitals and was a board member of Junior Achievement. Chuck participates in a variety of ultra-endurance events each year including GoRuck and The Bataan Death March Memorial. He lives in Sagamore Hills, Ohio.

✓ Business Development & Outreach, S2A Solutions

✓ Experienced Business Development and Operations Executive

✓ BS, Mechanical Engineering

✓ Leadership Director at Team RWB

✓ Program Advisor at Challenge America